RefWorks citation views

You can select how you are to view your RefWorks records from a dropdown menu located at the upper right side of the page.

You can choose from six different formats in which to view your RefWorks records. Three are preset, while the rest are from a dropdown list of citation formats (see Customize guide).

1. Standard View (see above): Provides essential information (author, title, source, date) and the RefWorks folder the record is in, along with a Search Full Text button.

2. One line/Cite view (above): Provides the least amount of information but allows for the most citations per page.

3. Full view (right): Provides the most information (but fewest citations per page).
   - Only view that provides access to the Notes field, where you can annotate the record (See Edit References).

4, 5, 6. Citations in standardized bibliographical formats:

   User has the option of seeing his/her records in a number of standard citation styles, such as APA, MLA, etc. See Customize Your Account Settings for more information.
